

A Muslim's Right on His Brother

Page no: 237

I propose and plan:

a suitable program for the visit to be successful.

Ask their permission.....

Make the visit short.

Comfort the sick person.....

Pray for him.

I explain:

the significance of the fact that the Prophet (ﷺ) established rights for Muslims over one another:

The Prophet (PBUH) established rights for Muslims in order to strengthen social ties and empower Islamic values and ethics among people

I investigate:

the social groups which have rights in Islam:

Family	Relatives	Friends	Neighbours

I think then answer:

Who begins salutation in the following cases:

- ✦ Saeed met a group of his classmates in the school yard.

Saeed

- ✦ Abdullah met his elderly neighbor in the street.

Abdullah

I form an opinion:

of the following cases in cooperation with my group:

- ✦ Salim greets everyone he sees in the street and feels safe with him arguing that salutation is a right.

It is not recommended because it will cause inconvenience to others

- ✦ While Abdullah was riding by the side of his father in the car, he saw his friend Majid in the street and said, 'Hi Majid'.

He should say Assalamu Alaikum Majid.

I make a judgment:

on the following conduct and give a justification:

✦ Hussam told the inviter that the food was not delicious.

It is not a right behaviour. The inviter will feel bad

✦ Someone accepted the invitation of his neighbor, but he made sarcastic remarks of some invitees.

It is not a good behaviour.

I summarize:

the effect of accepting an invitation on the invitee and the inviter.

It will strengthen the relationships between the members of the society

I infer:

some of the requirements of asking for advice in the following cases:

- Someone asked his teacher's advice on the correct way of studying his lessons at home.

He should ask politely

- Someone asked advice on how to bluff in selling food stuffs to customers.

We should not give advice for doing evil things

I propose:

How does the sneezer respond to one who says to him "May Allah have mercy on you" if he praises Allah (تَعَالَى)؟

Yahdeekumullahu wa yuslihu balukum. (May Allah guide you and make your affairs right.)

I explain:

the sound action to take if the sneezer forgets to praise Allah of Allah (تَعَالَى).

Remind him / her in the following cases some aspects of the etiquette of visiting the sick :

- ✦ Someone sits long hours with the sick person.

We should make the visit short

- ✦ Someone brings the patient food arguing that the food provided by the hospital is not enough.

It is not allowed. It may cause harm to the patient and we should abide by the rules of the hospital

- ✦ Someone tells the patient that some deaths occurred because of the same disease the patient is suffering from.

We should use comforting words and pray for the patient's recovery

- ✦ Someone uses an instrument which disturbs other patients.

We should not disturb the patients in any way.

I explain:

The efforts exerted by the UAE to take care of endowments.

The UAE is always in front for the humanitarian services. It provides all facilities for the treatment of a sick person and for the burial of a dead person.

I investigate:

I complete the following table by writing Sharia ruling in cooperation with my classmates:

Act	Ruling
Salutation (assalamu)	Sunnah
Responding to salutation	Obligatory
Giving advice	Obligatory (muakkadah) Sunnah
Saying to one who sneezes "May Allah have mercy upon you" (تشميت)	Obligatory
Accepting an invitation to a wedding banquet	Duty
Visiting the sick	Sunnah

A Muslim's rights over another Muslim are six

Saying "May Allah have mercy upon you" to a sneezer (تشميت العاطس).

Greeting when meeting each other

Accepting invitation

Giving sincere advice to him.

Visiting when he/she is sick

Attending the funeral

Of the benefits of giving advice

Love, affinity and compassion.

Makes the relationships stronger

Sowing trust between people.

Helps the people to make right decision

Student Activities

I answer by myself

First, what are the effects left by a visit on the spirit of a patient?

Visiting the sick people lessens their sufferings and stirs in them pleasure and contentment.

Second, what is the requirement of giving advice to one who seeks it?

The advisor should give his advice honestly and direct the advice seeker to what is good, free him of confusion and protect him from harm.

Third, explain the importance of the rights mentioned in the hadith to the individual and society?

It strengthens the social ties and empower Islamic values and ethics among people because these rights are capable of diffusing peace, love and cooperation between people.

Fourth, what is meant by the following:

1. Asked advice from you?

Asking advice from someone indicates trust in him and recognition of his wisdom. This reflects the need of the one who is seeking advice.

2. Say "May Allah have mercy upon you"?

This signifies loving good for the sneezer and make him feel his rank in the eye of the person who says the du'a. Feelings of endearment are deepened between the two and their relationships becomes stronger.
